CLASSROOM MANAGEMENT BUILDING BLOCKS

Lin Winin

“What you expect is what you get.”

You are the teacher and you must set the expectation!

When communicating your expectations for students' work and behavior, be direct specific/concrete

clear consistent tenacious

and follow through

When students still don't behave/engage, try lowering your voice to attract their attention using proximity to quell the chatter or off-task behavior the “broken record” technique to talk about their behavior being a choice a conference in the hall to avoid confrontation and finally, removal to the main office or assistant principals

Other helpful tips:

1. avoid confrontation
2. enable choice when possible
3. get involved in the activity
4. inform the teacher
